Rate Matrix

standard | Negotiated Rate: $195.0 USD | Discount from BAR: N/A

Pricing Rationale

Seasonality: shoulder-to-high season demand is likely supporting firmer pricing.

Inventory posture: the agreement was captured under NLRA (Non-Last Room Availability), which materially affects pricing flexibility.

Rate posture: the hotel held $15 above the working target, suggesting limited incremental flexibility.

Market context: no major citywide event or extraordinary demand signal was captured in the workflow.

Weather or temperature signal: no weather-driven pricing adjustment was explicitly identified.

External risk factor: no geopolitical or extraordinary external disruption was explicitly identified.

Call summary signal: The agent successfully negotiated a rate of $195 per night for a standard room at Hilton Hotels in ORD, starting from an initial proposal of $170. The hotel initially countered with $230, but agreed to the agent's offer after a brief negotiation.

Structured summary hint: the analyzer surfaced a working rate of $195.

Negotiation Notes

Hotel: that seems a little low can you do 230

Agent: Given we've secured $189/night at Vanguard Suites in Denver with a 22.5% discount, I can move up to $195 per night for this booking. Does that work for you?

Hotel: and you've got a deal

Agent: Great, we're agreed at $195 per night for the stay. Thank you for your time and flexibility throughout this process. I look forward to working together again soon.
