Rate Matrix

standard | Negotiated Rate: $230.0 USD | Discount from BAR: N/A

Pricing Rationale

Seasonality: off-peak seasonality appears to be moderating the rate posture.

Inventory posture: the agreement was captured under NLRA (Non-Last Room Availability), which materially affects pricing flexibility.

Rate posture: the hotel held $20 above the working target, suggesting limited incremental flexibility.

Market context: no major citywide event or extraordinary demand signal was captured in the workflow.

Weather or temperature signal: no weather-driven pricing adjustment was explicitly identified.

External risk factor: no geopolitical or extraordinary external disruption was explicitly identified.

Call summary signal: The negotiation concluded with the hotel agreeing to a rate of $230 per night, which was higher than the agent's initial proposal but lower than the hotel's initial counteroffer. The agent successfully used competitor rates to negotiate a better deal.

Structured summary hint: the analyzer surfaced a working rate of $230.

Negotiation Notes

Agent: Given that Lumina Hospitality Group recently accepted $236 and Vanguard Suites was $189, $230 per night is a fair and competitive rate. Can you approve $230?

Hotel: all right

Agent: Confirmed, we're set at $230 per night. Thank you for your time and flexibility on this rate. Have a great day, and I look forward to working together.
